

KANE LOSES FIRST WHISKY SALE CASE

Injection of Bribery Charge Leads Federal Attorney to Withdraw Prosecution

SECOND DEFENDANT TRIED

The government lost its first case today against the liquorists. Defeat was admitted by United States District Attorney Kane in the initial prosecution of the twenty-seven cases against saloonkeepers and others charged with the violation of the wartime prohibition act.

After all of the evidence had been heard against George Kutra, who has a saloon at Second and Tasker streets, Mr. Kane decided to drop the prosecution and asked Judge Dickinson to enter an order of nolle prosequi in the case. Before dismissing the jury, Judge Dickinson spoke of the importance of upholding the law and of the duty of citizens to assist in this. He then allowed Kutra to go.

Kutra is the saloonkeeper who testified that John Fisher, an acting City Hall detective, tried to bribe him $150 to avoid prosecution.

The failure of the prosecution delighted a crowd of liquor dealers gathered in the court room, awaiting the calling of the cases.

It is understood, however, that Mr. Kane's reason for dropping the case was Kutra's charge against the policeman who obtained the evidence against the saloonkeeper. It is said that a careful investigation will be made into the facts in the case.

This country is still at war in all matters connected with the legality of the wartime prohibition enactment. Judge Dickinson gave such a ruling today.

NEW JERSEY VOTE CLOSE, IS REPORT

Interesting Contests for Governor and Offices Cause Rush to Primaries

ZONE FIGHT IS A SPUR

New Jersey is voting today to nominate gubernatorial and other candidates. In spite of the rain—and in counties adjacent to Philadelphia in spite of the war between the citizens and the Public Service trolley company—an unusually large vote had been polled by noon.

The leading candidates of both Republican and Democratic parties are running so close that early reports could give no idea of who was ahead. The best informed politicians in all camps are predicting surprises when the vote is in.

The rush to the polls at an early hour this morning indicated an unusually heavy vote. New Jersey has mixed national issues with its state politics, and the result of today's voting will be much an expression of the state's opinion on questions which are exciting both Republican and Democratic national leaders as it will be an expression of preference for individual candidates.

The big field of gubernatorial candidates is one of the interesting features of the election. Seven men are running for nomination in the Republican and Democratic tickets.

In addition to the four Republican and three Democratic candidates for the gubernatorial chair, the other state offices nominees being balloted for include county commissioners from every county, nine state senators and Assembly candidates to be named for the sixty seats in the House of Assembly.

Trolley Fight an Issue

Leaders of both the Democrat and Republican parties in Camden and Gloucester counties have been very active in the campaign for the gubernatorial chair, the other state offices nominees being balloted for include county commissioners from every county, nine state senators and Assembly candidates to be named for the sixty seats in the House of Assembly.

Didn't Name Candidate

Neither the Prohibition party nor the Socialist party has named a candidate for governor.

In virtually every other state office each party has named just sufficient number of candidates as are needed to fill the office or offices.

Camden county assemblymen candidates for three vacancies include: Republican—J. Hallings Coles, T. Harry Rowland and Joseph F. Wallwork.

Democrat—Charles B. Cox, Wilmer Collins and Francis X. Gorman.

The Republican municipal ticket for the primaries follows: For mayor, Charles H. Ellis, who for the last six years has held the office; for recorder, O. Glenn Stackhouse, incumbent; for collector of taxes, A. Benjamin Sparks, and for city treasurer, George A. Frey.

Members-at-large for the county committee, four to be elected, are: F. P. Patterson, Jr., John W. Sell, Harry C. Sharp and William D. Vanmanan.

Have No Opposition

The Republicans have no opposition for state committee men. Their only candidates are David H. Baird, the Democratic candidate; Edward J. Kelleher and J. Henry Neuzer.

The Democratic municipal ticket in Camden follows: Mayor, John T. Wright; recorder, Nelson W. Cox; city treasurer, O. Glenn Stackhouse; collector of taxes, S. Stewart Joslin; city treasurer, O. Glenn Stackhouse, incumbent; for recorder of taxes, A. Benjamin Sparks, and for city treasurer, George A. Frey.

The Prohibition party has named candidates for the Assembly only. They are Matthew C. Campbell, W. Howard Jones and Harry Firth, and three are to be elected.

The Socialist party has placed on its ticket for mayor Leo M. Harkins.

Voting in Gloucester

A big vote in Gloucester City both on the county and city ticket, will be polled, it is expected. The Republican city organization is backing Newton K. Bugbee for governor and he will have a majority of at least 500 in the city over William N. Runyon, his friends say. The Democrats will likely give Edwards a small majority, although most of the saloonkeepers and their friends will support Nugent.

The Republicans of Gloucester are expected to nominate Alonzo Chesman, Charles Mailey and G. William Barard for councilmen. The Democrats are expected to nominate Thomas Callahan, Gerald Lantry and J. Harry Johnson, Stokes Prickett and William H. McCormick will, it is said, be nominated for the board of freeholders by the Republicans and Warren S. Coyle and John Conover by the Democrats. Robert A. Lincoln and Harry Reeves are scheduled to be elected members of the county Republican executive committee and Frank X. Gorman and Gerald Lanny by the Democrats.

TINICUM RESIDENTS IN WAR ON M'CLURE

Demand Made That "Whisky Ring" Be Driven From Township

COUNTING VOTES AT MEDIA

Urgent demand that the "whisky ring," an adjunct of the McClure political forces, be driven out of Tinicum township was made by more than half a hundred residents who called at the office of John Barton Weeks, Mr. Weeks is counsel for the Republican League.

Considerable evidence in the way of alleged fraud at the last election was presented to Mr. Weeks, and arrest of election officers and others responsible for violations of the law will follow.

The Tinicum township case, in which it is alleged that 140 nonresidents were introduced from Hog Island by motor-vehicles to the polls and voted, will come before the Delaware county return board tomorrow.

Attorneys for the Republican League of Delaware county worked last night to clear up a mass of evidence against election officers and other individuals responsible for the alleged "whisky vote delivery" in the strong Mr. Clark precinct. The work of recounting the ballots is well under way in the court at Media. All but two ballot boxes from the city of Chester are now in the custody of the court. The others are expected in Media late today.

Vare Awaits Count Before Commenting

Continued From Page One Congressman Moore's labor record. We did have the returned soldiers' vote in spite of all the charges that were made to hurt me personally and the attempts to drive the soldiers into the Moore camp. We know that the returned soldiers were with us because the organization kept close track of them.

"What will be your attitude if the official count shows that the opposition has won?" "I do not appreciate the fact that a change of less than one vote in each precinct in the city will reverse the official figures," replied Senator Vare.

"We had better wait until we get one thing out of the way before we take up another. Let us wait until the official returns of the election are in and then we can discuss the future."

"Do you expect to apply for city contracts for street cleaning should Mr. Moore be elected?"

"That is too far ahead. I do not know what we will do. In the meantime we will go ahead attending to business as usual while waiting for the result of the official count."

Those who meet Senator Vare for the first time, the most talked about political leader of a decade, see a man slightly below the average height, rather stoutly built, full of face and smooth shaven and wearing a dark blue suit with a brown collar and a black four-in-hand. He wears no jewelry.

His face is striking. It is that of a man who has encountered a lot of the stern realities of life. The lower part is broad and heavy. The jaw indicates firmness and persistence. He has a large, well-formed nose, lips that rarely smile, and dark eyes with heavy brows.

Senator Vare receives his visitors standing. I should judge that the greater part of the day in his office is spent on his feet. His utterances are direct and to the point.

Whether you meet him in the whirl of a strenuous political campaign or in the quiet of his office, where every surrounding tends to the orderly routine of business life, he is the same.

He gives you the impression of always holding himself in reserve; of constant self-repression. Only when he is intensely in earnest he betrays it by increased rapidity of utterance.

SCATTERGOOD HEADS DRIVE Will Be in Charge of $250,000 Charity Campaign

J. Henry Scattergood has been appointed chairman of the committee to conduct the united civic campaign to raise $250,000 in the week of October 11-18.

"These organizations are all working for the betterment of Philadelphia, and are seeking to discover the reasons and seek the remedies for difficult conditions of living," Mr. Scattergood said.

M'LAUGHLIN SURE TO RUN FOR MAYOR

Will Be Genuine Candidate, He Says—Gorman to Manage Headquarters

WILL RESIGN HIS POSITION

Joseph S. MacLaughlin, director of the Department of Supplies, in an interview today, denounced what he described as "insinuations" that he would not be a genuine candidate for Mayor against the Republican nominee.

J. Frederick Jenkinson, campaign manager for Director MacLaughlin, announced that Frank J. Gorman, who was secretary of the old Keystone party, had accepted the offer of management of the MacLaughlin headquarters.

Gorman is now connected with the Water Bureau and according to Jenkinson, will resign to give all his time to the MacLaughlin campaign. Gorman, it was further announced, will be one of the candidates for county commissioner. Gorman served as a lieutenant in the navy and has been recommended for the Distinguished Service award.

Harbour for Recorder of Deeds

Colonel James F. Harbour, of the 30th Engineers, said Mr. Jenkinson, will be the candidate for recorder of deeds. Colonel Harbour was cited for gallantry in the Meuse-Argonne offensive.

"I would betray the confidence of many real Independents in all parts of the city," said Director MacLaughlin, "unless I kept my word and made the race for Mayor. Of course I will be a candidate. I cannot be any more emphatic than I have been. Some, of course, would like me to be false to the pledges I have made to work for a bigger and better Philadelphia. Insinuations that I am not a candidate in good faith are unworthy of consideration."

Resign When Nominated

"Just as soon as the ticket is nominated," replied the director. "We have until October 7 to make the nominations on the new party ticket which will be pre-empt. The resignation will be handed in about that time at the latest."

Discussing the support he expects to get, Director MacLaughlin said: "Many Independents have promised to support me. Further, men who supported either Congressman Moore or Judge Patterson in the primaries have told me they will support the nomination of either Moore or Judge Patterson in the November election as the real Independent candidate for Mayor."

Kendrick Remains Silent

Murdock Kendrick, campaign manager for Congressman Moore, said he had no comment to make at this time on the MacLaughlin candidacy. The Moore leaders take the attitude that the main business just now is the official count and that neither Mr. Moore can "wait and see."

POLITICAL POT BOILS AS COUNT GOES ON

Martin Out for Moore—Talk on Cabinet—MacLaughlin's Campaign Plans Out

TOWN MEETING PARTY ENDS

Senator David Martin's declaration for Congressman Moore for Mayor, the demise of the Town Meeting party and plans for the ticket to be headed by Director of Supplies MacLaughlin mark today's political developments.

Further as the official count tends more and more to confirm the nomination of Mr. Moore, cabinet speculation is experiencing a revival. Following the suggestion made by supporters of Congressman Moore that Colonel John C. Groomer, of the American expeditionary forces, was being put forward as a candidate for director of public safety in event of Mr. Moore's election as Mayor, the case of Colonel J. Warner Hutchins likewise was brought out. Edwin F. Morse, a business man and member of the committee of one hundred, was suggested by a member of the Moore campaign committee as a candidate for the post of director of public works.

David J. Smith, former director of public safety and counsel for the Moore forces, announced definitely that he could not be considered as a candidate in any sense because of his law practice. Mr. Smith's name has been persistent in the minds of those in connection with the office of director of public safety.

The passing of the Town Meeting party was announced by George W. Coles, chairman. This party was launched on the wave of popular resentment growing out of the Fifth ward murder and election outrages of 1917.

Chairman Coles, "has achieved its object and passed out of official existence. The old members may meet unofficially, but the organization goes out of existence with the success of Congressman Moore. In order to achieve this success the party merged with the Republican party to make the fight at the primaries. It even refused to ask for the selection of registrars in the name of the Town Meeting party."

Senator Martin, one of the stalwarts of the Vire organization and leader of the New York vote, indicated Congressman Moore in these words: "There is no question about Congressman Moore's ability and that he has the qualifications that should make a most successful administration in the Mayor's office. In the event of his being declared the Republican nominee he will have no more earnest supporter than myself to insure his election by a large majority."

David H. Lane, of the Twentieth ward, has already said substantially the same thing.
